

The Educational Leadership Doctoral Program features coursework, seminars, a residency year, a dissertation, and a cohort structure designed to promote peer support and interaction. The 60-hour program includes 42 hours of required core coursework, while also allowing for a cognate of 18 hours in an area that supports the student's professional goals.

The most common areas of specialization are higher education and the superintendency; however, any area in which there is a graduate degree is eligible for use as a cognate area. Areas of specialization available as part of the doctoral degree include:
